Cheat (also known as B.S., bluff, and I-doubt-it) is a card game where the players aim to get rid of all of their cards. It is a game of deception, with cards being played face-down and players being permitted to lie about the cards they have played. A challenge is usually made by players calling out the name of the game, and the loser of a challenge has to pick up every card played so

Sam Harris, one of the so-called New Atheists, has been making waves recently with his new book Waking Up: A Guide to Spirituality Without Religion. In it Harris talks openly about his meditation practice and spiritual experienceâ€”something he has done before but doesnâ€™t seem to have gained as much interest or notice as it has now.

There are three problems increasingly evident in 'tobacco control' science when it comes to tobacco harm reduction: Contrived and phoney research designed to support pre-existing policy preferences (see previous post). Spin by scientists and activists designed to create some sort of moral panic or adverse change in risk perception out of absolutely nothing.

No Evidence To Support Homeopathic Immunizations. Certain homeopathic products (called "œnosodes" or "œhomeopathic immunizations") have been promoted by some as substitutes for conventional immunizations, but the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention says there's no credible scientific evidence to support such claims.
